About the Authors

Jennifer Smith is the co-founder and Vice President of American Graphics Institute (AGI). She has authored numerous books on the Adobe software products, including development of titles in AGI's Digital Classroom series. She regularly speaks at conferences and seminars, including the CRE8 Conference. Jennifer has worked in all aspects of design and production from production artist, to art director, to user experience designer. Jennifer combines her practical experience and technical expertise as an educator. She has developed training programs for Adobe Systems and for all types of designers involved in creating print, web, and interactive solutions, along with designers creating fashion and apparel. Her teaching and writing style shows the clear direction of a practiced designer with in-depth knowledge of the Adobe Creative Suite applications. When she's not speaking or teaching, she can be found in suburban Boston, Massachusetts, with her husband and five children. You can read about Jennifer's seminar and conference appearances at www.agitraining.com. You can also follow Jennifer on Twitter @jsmithers.

Christopher Smith is president of the American Graphics Institute. He is the author of more than ten books on web, interactive, and print publishing technology, including many of the Adobe official training guides. Christopher is also the creator and editor of the Digital Classroom series of books, published by Wiley, which are widely used by schools that teach creative software tools. Learn more about American Graphics Institute's training programs at www.agitraining.com or follow them on Twitter @agitraining. You can follow Christopher on Twitter @cgsmith or read his blog posts at www.agitraining.com/blogs.

Fred Gerantabee is an Emmy award-winning interactive designer, web developer, and author based in New York City. Fred has been involved in web design and development since 1996 and has authored/co-authored over a dozen books and videos on web design and development, including the Flash CS5 Professional Digital Classroom from Wiley. Widely considered a "go to" expert on Flash ActionScript, Dreamweaver, and HTML/CSS, Fred continues to explore new technologies in the field, as well as speak at industry conferences and events. Fred lives by the beach in New York with his wife, Samantha, dog Q, and several guitars that have yet to be named. Drop him a line at www.fgerantabee.com.

Authors' Acknowledgments

Jennifer Smith: Thanks to all our friends and colleagues at Adobe Systems for their support and the many product team members who responded to our questions throughout the writing process.

To the highly professional instructional staff at American Graphics Institute (AGI), we appreciate your great insight into the best ways to help others discover creative software applications.

Thanks to all at Wiley Publishing especially Christopher Morris, who applied just enough pressure to help us meet our deadlines, yet was an absolute pleasure to work with.

Thanks to Amy Fandrei for having faith.

Also we would like to thank our technical editor Cathy Auclair for all the extra insight and effort she put into technically reviewing this book.

Grant, Elizabeth, and Edward — thanks for putting up with our long hours in front of the keyboard night after night.

Thanks to all of Kelly and Alex's friends for permission to use their photos.

Christopher Smith: Thanks to my many colleagues at AGI and Avlade who assisted in making this and so many of our other books possible. Especially Greg and Jeremy for assistance with technical details and reader inquiries, Cheri for making us always sound and look good, to Chris L. and Andrea for making sure our clients receive the best care possible, and Peter for making certain we all get paid. A special thank you to my two co-authors, Jennifer and Fred, it's a pleasure and honor to work with such talented and articulate individuals.

Fred Gerantabee: Fred would like to thank Amy Fandrei, Christopher Morris, Virginia Sanders, and the excellent team at Wiley publishing. Thank you to Christopher and Jennifer Smith and the AGI team; Robin Rusch, James Wu, and my colleagues at BrandWizard Technologies & Interbrand in New York. Carisa Gasser of Jambone Creative; the brothers of APD; my mom Francine Gray, Cindy and Michael Urich, my wife Samantha for her love and support. In loving memory of Michael Gueran.
